NJMC Welcomes Distribution International to Meadowlands District

International Thermal Insulation Manufacturer Opens Warehouse/ Office in East Rutherford

LYNDHURST, N.J. – The New Jersey Meadowlands Commission (NJMC) is pleased to announce that Distribution International has opened a New Jersey branch in East Rutherford. The Houston based, worldwide supplier of thermal insulation, safety equipment and environmental products this month moved into warehouse and office space on Murray Hill Parkway. The company’s decision to expand into the Meadowlands District is the latest example of economic growth in the region.

“The Meadowlands Commission welcomes Distribution International to the Meadowlands District – the economic engine of northern New Jersey,” said Marcia Karrow, Executive Director of the NJMC. “Distribution International has made a wise choice in taking advantage of the District’s ideal location and business friendly environment that provide a pathway to economic success.”

Distribution International, which is celebrating its 55th year in business, supplies mechanical insulation, abatement, fire-stopping and safety products used in all lines of construction to the industrial and commercial markets. “Our products are energy-efficient, which reduce heating and cooling costs for our customers, and protect their businesses while benefitting the environment,” said Thomas McQuillan, President of IDC Corporation, a Distribution International Company.

McQuillan said the Meadowlands District’s proximity to its New Jersey and New York customers and easy access to major roadways made moving to the region an easy decision.

“We’re closer to projects in New Jersey, which makes it very convenient for our New Jersey customers,” McQuillan said. “A lot of our contractors who work in New York City also come through this way. Plus, we can deliver to our New York businesses right over the George Washington Bridge. The proximity to Routes 17 and 3 makes movement very easy.”
